Sickle Cell Disease Education & Awareness

We want to understand your thoughts about treatments to help cure Sickle Cell Disease (SCD)

A Duke University research study is seeking adults with SCD and parents of children with SCD to complete an on-line survey about their experiences with SCD and their thoughts about possible treatments for SCD. The information you provide will help researchers develop tools that may help doctors and health officials make decisions about treating people with SCD.

You may be eligible for this research study if you are:

- Age 18 years or older with SCD
- A parent/legal guardian of a child with SCD

Participants will answer questions about their perceptions of SCD risks and treatments. The survey will be in English, will take about 25 minutes to complete. Participants will be compensated.

For more information, contact our research coordinator at info@cayennewellness.org. Mention "DUKE Sickle-Cell Disease survey" when you email.
